New member quotes

'I start my new job as a SAS programmer Monday and am excited to use your excellent material for self-study! You did a fantastic job.' Chad Russ

'Excellent website and WELL worth the $$ to join. Thanks for providing this resource. I have been a SAS user since Version 1 back in the 70's and I still have my original Merrill's book on capacity planning :-)', Dan Loerke, Mainframe Architect at Meridian Technologies

Quote from UCSD CDISC 101 Mapping class student -

'I really enjoyed the class and thanks for accommodating me even though I was late. I really understood the current standards and the future of CDISC and ADaM programming.'

Best regards, Amutha Sampathkumar

'Thanks Sunil, sas savvy helps me a lot in learning!', Thanks Arjun

Quote from webinar 'Finally a Proc Tabulate I can use to QC any Table' webinar -
'I enjoyed the presentation and learned something new! It was very informative! Thanks again for inviting me to this SAS Savvy meeting! Have a great one.', Cheers, TsuChing

SAS Savvy Updates

Below are updates made in March. Cannot wait till the end of the month for updates? You can subscribe to free daily updates.

1. In the SAS Enterprise Guide section, I just added a link to this SAS paper - Tips and Tricks to Using SAS® Enterprise Guide® in a BI World.
2. For the SAS Savvy CDISC fans, I created a new CDISC Reference Page with a link to a CDISC Reference Guide. It is a must for all beginner to advanced level CDISC programmers. Let me know what you think of it.
3. Great for both new and experienced programmers, I just added links to The Little SAS book PDF and SAS Examples in the New to SAS Programming section.
4. Do you know the answer to this common FAQ on SAS options? - When executing a %INCLUDE 'INIT.SAS' file, for example, what is an option to display INIT.SAS in the log?
5. In CDISC section, I added a common FAQ on what is the difference between these informats - b8601da8., e8601da10., b8601da15. and e8601da19.?
6. New UCSD CDISC Online class student -

Dear Sunil,

I just wanted to express my gratitude to you for your great CDISC class at the UCSD Extension. I just completed it and it turned out (as I was aiming for the 'A' grade) more work and material than I initially thought – but worth every minute of it.

The way you have designed the class, you give multiple options to 'experience' it. You also provide several layers of learning, making it useful to both the person whose objective is to learn about clinical data submission concepts and CDISC standards, as well as to the programmer and the analyst. As a Programmer/Analyst myself, I am walking out of your class, not only with an invaluable new understanding of CDISC standards and the data submission process, but with the most generous and detailed collection of code samples, documentation, and online resources, including your SASSavvy portal.

I also (so very much) appreciate your relentless support, great attitude, and role model as a professional in this field.

I am looking forward to taking more advanced CDISC classes with you.

Please contact me for anything I can be of service to you. I will certainly be contacting you to check if you are attending Pharma/SAS events in the area so I can greet you in person.

With much gratitude,
Mayca Roig, MS, MA, MBA
